ARMSTRONG'S Carolina Lilies blew in here the other day, accompanied by a sort of "safety first" policy. They were playing over in Ohio and when the threatened railroad strike began to get red in the face and look like something might be doing Manager Armstrong tipped his crew on deck and set out for this port where he is now resting at anchor waiting for the dawn of another week. Monday his show opens at the Hippodrome for the full round of three shows every day. Mr. Armstrong told us last night that he has a good show. It is one of those whirly girly sort with plenty of music, comedy and a swell chorus. Having been without a short-skirted bald men's delight for several weeks this organization is dropping in at the psychological moment, as it were, and next week ought to be a big one in point of attendance.

This sort of Zeppelin invasion of Mr. Armstrong's company should remind everyone who is interested in Fairmont theatricals that this city is the pivotal point of a chain of theatres linked together by an extensive electric transportation system. It was Mr. Armstrong's cue. He calculated that if the threatened tie up became a fact he could keep his show going right along the line for five or six weeks once he got into our haven of refuge. Now that he's here he says he is "delighted."

After you, my dear Gaston!

Tonight is the windup of the Zarrow Variety Review at the Hippodrome. They have had a fair week. The three bills introduced during their stay have been uniformly good. They are a happy crowd of talented performers and the vaudeville specialties introduced are rarely found in an organization playing small cities at small prices. The Lynch trio are unquestionably the strongest feature of the bill put on for tonight. Frank Lynch and little "Tod" engage in a soft shoe foot shuffle that is well worth seeing. Frank has the Barney Fagan style and coupled with his mighty pleasing appearance he shows great class.

The Hippodrome management has a surprise up the sleeve. It is hinted about the box office that it is to be as big and good as "My Honolulu Girl."

Tom Mix, the champion cowboy, is at the Nelson today in a western comedy called "Mistakes Will Happen." He is assisted by Victoria Ford, the charming comedienne, who confesses that in spite of the fact that she has generally played comedy roles, it has always been her secret ambition to be a great tragedienne and move audiences to tears.

When she was a girl she used to go to see famous emotional actresses portray such characters as Juliet, Lady Macbeth, Ophelia and others and way down deep in her heart she vowed that some day she too, would portray such characters.

"I used to practice the parts in my room at home," she says, "but somehow I never was much impressed with my acting. Perhaps some day my great ambition will be realized—who knows?"

This is the way the Cripple Creek Times recently described some feature horseback riding done by Chet Ryan.

Begorra, I'm American.
Heart, head, tooth and toe nails,
And I believe that we kin lick.
The biggest fleet that sails
The seas, and I believe.
That us folks has the sand,
To tackle any foreign foe.
Encaschit on our land,
And I, meself, kin lick a dom
Good company o' snipes,
That has a disposition,
To insult the Stars and Stripes.
And I'm an Irish man be birth,
That's where I git me starch,
And I allus feel like fightin'
On the sixteenth o' March—
If any spalpeen has a word,
Akin the Flag to say,
He'd better kape it to himself,
'Round me Saint Patrick's Day.

Geologists have long known that the Atlantic and Pacific oceans were once directly connected by water that extended across the present site of Panama and adjacent areas in Central America. The continents were thus separated during the Eocene and Oligocene epochs—not so very long ago, as geologists reckon time. At the end of Oligocene time, however, the surface of the earth in the region about the site of Panama was raised by earth movements which closed the mid-American passage and established continuous land connection between North and South America—connection which until recently was believed to have remained unbroken until the skill and indomitable pertinacity of the United States Army engineers cut the bond at Panama.

The separation of the oceans caused profound changes in their inhabitants, who had been able to wander unimpeded from ocean to ocean but now found themselves restricted in their range. Many species, marooned in an unfavorable environment, soon succumbed in the struggle for existence. Thus in Miocene time (the next epoch) the inhabitants of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans gradually became different, and they have now become so distinct that scarcely a single species is common to the seas on the two sides of the Isthmus.

The mid-American land barrier is generally thought to have remained intact from Miocene time down to the present day, but this belief is erroneous. T. Wayland Vaughan, a geologist of the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, on critically studying the fossil corals collected on Carrizo creek, in Imperial county, Cal., discovered that these corals resemble those of the Atlantic Ocean—that they are closely related to Pliocene and post-Pliocene forms that inhabit the waters about Florida and the West Indies. This fact seems to mean that after the Atlantic had been separated from the Pacific in Miocene time, the two oceans were again united in late Miocene or Pliocene time, the interoceanic connection permitting the Atlantic forms to reach points at the head of the Gulf of California, while conditions not yet un-
